Precautions Against Infection of Vessels by Plague Rats—Yokohama.

The following instructions were issued October 3, 1913, by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service on duty at the American consulate at Yokohama, Japan, to agents, owners, and masters of vessels, as a precaution against infection of vessels:

Owing to the infection of the customs docks at this port with plague rats the following regulations must be enforced from this date on all vessels bound for United States ports, in order to comply with the United States quarantine laws.

- (a) The vessel must be fended off from the dock at least 6 feet at all points.
- (b) All gangways and cargo chutes must be raised and all lighters and boats removed from alongside between sunset and sunrise. When vessels are discharging cargo during the night and gangways and cargo chutes are in use, watchmen must be stationed at these points to prevent the access of rats.
- (c) All lines from the vessel to the dock, shore, or vessels must be equipped with galvanized sheet-iron rat guards. These guards must fit the lines tightly, if necessary padding the lines with burlap or straw. The circumference of the guards must be approximated at all points. The guards must be applied near the vessel and must not overhang the dock or shore.
- (d) When it is impracticable to apply rat guards to lines, those portions of the lines nearest to the vessels will be covered with fresh tar for a distance of not less than 6 feet, and a new coating of tar applied daily.
